INTRODUCTION

April 30, 2004

Dear Prospective Applicant,

Serve DC looks forward to receiving your organization's application for Learn and Serve School-Based project within the District of Columbia. Please use the attached guidelines if you are applying for project funds.

Serve DC anticipates being able to award grants of up to $12,000 for fiscal year 2005. Awards will be made in early July. Funds must be used to develop and build support for high quality service-learning projects that involve youth in problem solving and planning for their communities. Serve DC envisions a school-based service-learning program that is not only attractive to principals, teachers and administrators, but to the youth themselves. We desire a program that attracts youth to service and develops a lifelong ethic of service.

Eligible applicants are K-12 public, public charter and private/independent schools. Applicants applying to Serve DC for funding must operate the project only within the District of Columbia. Projects that operate in or within a three block radius of a designated Hot Spot will receive extra points. An electronic copy of the RFA and a list of the Hot Spot locations are available at www.serve.dc.gov.

The deadline for applications is 5:00 p.m. June 8, 2004. Late applications will not be accepted. An application is considered late at 5:01 p.m. A checklist is provided to assist in meeting the submission requirements. Incomplete submissions will be ineligible for review. Applicants must submit one original and (7) copies. Please bind copies with binder clips only and do not staple.

Potential applicants are required to attend one of the following technical assistance sessions at One Judiciary Square, 441 4th St. NW, Suite 1040 South: 05/11/2004 from 5:00 PM to 7:00 PM, or 05/13/2004 from 5:00 PM to 7:00 PM. DEFINITION AND GOALS

Engaging Youth in “Exploring the Past, Present and Future of Their Neighborhoods”

K-12 School-Based Projects

What is service-learning?

Service-learning combines service to the community with student learning in a way that improves both the student and the community. According to the National and Community Service Trust Act of 1993, service-learning:

- a. Is a method whereby students learn and develop through active participation in thoughtfully organized service that is conducted in and meets the needs of communities;
- b. Is coordinated with a community service program and the community;
- c. Helps foster civic responsibility;
- d. Is integrated into and enhances the academic curriculum and the education components of the community service program in which the participants are enrolled; and
- e. Provides structured time for participants to reflect on the service experience.

The overall goals of this grant funding are:

- a. To enhance the education of youth by including service-learning as an academic strategy;
- b. To develop and build support for high-quality service-learning projects in DC that will ultimately assist local schools, principals and teachers/coordinators to effectively administer service-learning projects as part of their youth programming;
- c. To increase and enhance opportunities for youth to serve by identifying youth volunteerism opportunities at community and faith-based organizations; and
- d. To promote recognition initiatives for youth engaged in service (President’s Service Award, Mayor’s Community Service Award, etc.) to recognize and to award outstanding performance of participants.

Amounts of Grants

The grant amount will vary by circumstance, need, and program model. Serve DC has $36,000 available for funding and will award grants up to $12,000 to schools and to community and faith-based organizations in collaboration with schools.

OVERVIEW

SERVE DC

The DC Commission on National and Community Service, now known as Serve DC, was established by an Executive Order of Mayor Anthony A. Williams on July 21, 2000 and is housed in the Executive Office of the Mayor. The mission of Serve DC is to strengthen and promote the District of Columbia's spirit of service through partnerships, national service and volunteerism. Serve DC with the support of the District's State Education Office and the DC Public Schools (DCPS) will provide grant funding to school-based programs in the District of Columbia.

As described in Serve DC's Unified District Plan for Service, its shared vision statement is 'to be a community that embraces an ethic of service and empowers residents to work together with unity of purpose.' Serve DC works closely with other national service providers in the District including AmeriCorps*National Directs, AmeriCorps*VISTA, AmeriCorps*NCCC, and Senior Corps to share resources, effective practices, and support to strengthen the local national service network.

Serve DC also works with a cadre of other organizations throughout the District to promote service and volunteerism. Mayor Anthony A. Williams designated Serve DC as the District coordinator for Citizen Corps. Citizen Corps creates opportunities for individuals to help their communities prepare for and respond to emergencies. Serve DC also coordinates the Mayor's Community Service Award, which recognizes one youth and one adult volunteer each month for outstanding community service in the District.

Serve DC will administer Learn and Serve School-Based funding through federal funds from the Corporation for National and Community Service. Therefore, District and federal rules and regulations apply. In addition to providing grant funding, Serve DC provides oversight and support to applicants selected as programs. Oversight includes site visits, fiscal monitoring and reporting requirements, while support includes project coordinator trainings, meetings, and one-on-one technical assistance.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT DESIGNING A LEARN AND SERVE PROJECT

NEEDS AND SERVICES

Proposed projects will allow youth an opportunity to explore the past, present and future of their neighborhoods while serving their communities. Applicants will be encouraged to develop service-learning programs that give youth an opportunity to canvass and map their own communities; research the histories of their neighborhoods; identify community assets and needs in order to develop service-learning projects; and find the people, organizations and systems that make their communities stronger such as city council members and various government offices.

The needs statement in each proposal should reflect the compelling needs of the project and be supported by evidence, such as census data, community needs assessments, or other reliable measures. Applicants should describe how needs were identified.

Successful applicants must identify a coordinator for the service-learning project. Proposals should also describe a comprehensive plan to recruit, select, develop, train, supervise and recognize students and additional community volunteers.

The needs statement may identify educational concerns within the student population, such as literacy, civic knowledge and participation, drop-out rates or risky behavior, or it may cite needs in other issue areas such as housing, economic development, nutrition, or public safety. The activities of proposed projects must have a positive impact on the needs identified while enhancing the breadth and depth of service-learning in schools.

Successful applicants will describe experience in service-learning and clearly explain how the service proposed will be tied to learning outcomes and will provide evidence of previous accomplishments in developing service, service-learning, or school-community partnerships to meet local needs.

Successful applicants will detail how youth will prepare, act and reflect on the service they undertake. They will clearly outline how the program will be structured during the day and over the course of the program so time is allotted for learning and reflection.

In order to ensure that students receive the greatest possible benefit from service-learning activities, service activities and curricula must be planned carefully. Students need opportunities to develop their leadership and civic skills. They also need structured time to reflect on their service in order to analyze it in its academic, historical and community context and internalize the lessons learned.

STRENGTHENING COMMUNITIES

Community involvement in all phases of a project is critical to its success. Successful applicants will describe strong community partnerships, including well-defined roles for partners. In addition to forming partnerships between schools and community organizations to support service-learning activities, Learn and Serve School-Based projects are required to support service-learning projects involving the recruitment and management of adult volunteers. The recruitment, management and involvement of adult volunteers provide valuable models of service to youth. When the volunteers are family members, it fosters an ethic of service in school, in the community, and at home.

As part of a national strategy for making federal resources available to faith-based organizations, proposals should describe how partnerships will be encouraged between the project and religious and private schools where appropriate, as well as other community and faith-based organizations. As with all partnerships, these partnerships should be multifaceted and built on mutual planning and decision-making.

A vibrant service-learning project must consist of a viable fiscal agent, and one or more community partners that include: a public or private nonprofit organization, a private for-profit business, or a private elementary or secondary school. In addition, such partnership recognizes teachers/service-learning coordinators, students, community partners, and other volunteers both as teachers and as learners. In short, a well-designed service-learning program brings each partner to the table to help guide the program.

Successful applicants need to demonstrate a commitment to sustainability and cost effectiveness. High quality service-learning projects are characterized by a reciprocal partnership between the school and the community. Just as the community can benefit from the school's support, the school can benefit by engaging not just its students but parents and other community members in the program.

Building reciprocal partnerships takes effort and time, and sustainable, reciprocal partnerships should be the goal of each proposed project. Partnerships that share responsibility for the program among school and community partners can benefit the school's efforts to sustain the program.

Proposals should indicate how school-community partnership and volunteer recruitment and management strategies build the capacity of all parties to strengthen both the school and the community.

Proposed projects that operate in or within a three block radius of a designated "Hot Spot"—high crime areas that receive a concentration of efforts from District government agencies—will receive extra points toward the total application score. The maps of those Hot Spots are available on www.serve.dc.gov

DEVELOPMENT OF PARTICIPANTS

Youth (Program Participants)

Community involvement in schools builds the capacity of the school to meet the needs of the students. Likewise students' service builds the capacity of community organizations to meet their missions. DCPS mandates that every student graduating from high school must complete 100 hours of community service in order to graduate. The Learn and Serve School-Based grant can provide students with opportunities to meet this requirement in meaningful ways. Each project will be responsible for tracking service hours of youth participants enrolled in the program.

Successful applicants will be expected to nominate outstanding youth participants for the Serve DC sponsored Mayor's Community Service Award given each month to one youth and one adult.

Another opportunity for youth to apply their learning, expand their leadership skills, and reflect on their experience will be in the celebration activities for the Learn and Serve programs. Applicants are required to participate, create or showcase their service-learning projects to the community during National Youth Service Day in April.

National Youth Service Day is the largest service event in the world and is scheduled for April 14-17, 2005. This year in DC, over 8,000 youth and their families in Washington, DC participated in over 80 community service projects. This is an opportunity to highlight youth and their commitment to our community. To learn more about how to get involved including funding resources and service project ideas applicants can contact Kimberly Flowers (Kimberly.Flowers@dc.gov) at 202.727.9461.

Participating youth should determine how the projects are showcased. They may decide to create a report, exhibit, or multimedia presentation with the assistance of training and technical assistance providers. This will provide an opportunity for them to further develop their verbal and written communication skills and work cooperatively with each other. They must be encouraged to invite local politicians, community organizers, and mentors, further connecting them to positive role models of citizenship and service. Proposals should include a well-designed plan to engage participants in service activities during National Youth Service Day.

Teachers/Coordinators

Research suggests that the positive effects of service-learning for participants can only be sustained if students are given multiple opportunities over time to link their learning to service.¹ Project coordinators of selected applicants will receive required training in effective service-learning principles provided by Serve DC.

Proposals should indicate how the program will assist participants in developing service-learning opportunities that maximize student outcomes. Research suggests that service activities should be of sustained or significant duration (at least 20 hours a semester), engage students in effective reflection, and be available many times throughout a student's education. Effective projects prepare students in advance for their service experience. Project participants should be given time to reflect on their service in the context of the class curriculum throughout the project and should be encouraged to analyze and think critically about their service activities on an ongoing basis.

Proposals should be designed to implement age-appropriate learning activities that foster civic knowledge, attitudes, and behavior. The relationship between service and democratic practices, ideas and history should be made explicit in order for students to see service as a civic responsibility.

High-quality service-learning projects should educate students in the historical context of the laws and social policies that affect the service they conduct, even if the service is not part of a social studies program. This reflection is essential to the development of civic participation in young people over time. All projects should link service to civic participation and the roots, principles, and history of American democracy. By purposefully linking participants' actions of today to our nation's past, the connection can be made to the role and responsibility of each citizen.

Additional civic education resources include "A National Initiative on American History, Civics, and Service," a project of National History Day and the National Archives and Records Administration (www.ourdocuments.gov); and, a new competitive grants program, "We the People," offered by the National Endowment for the Humanities (www.wethepeople.gov).

The program design of each project should provide students the opportunity to serve with others from diverse backgrounds. Diversity has wide meaning here and may include differences in age, ethnicity, English proficiency, religion, economic status, race, and disabilities. All project participants need to be appropriately prepared to serve with others who are different from themselves in order to provide positive experiences for all participants. A key factor in this preparation is to help each group to understand what it needs from the others in order to accomplish the service project.

Adequate site supervision is a fundamental part of any service experience and requires careful preparation of those who coordinate service activities, whether they are teachers, students, adult volunteers, or community agency representatives.

ORGANIZATIONAL CAPACITY

Applicants are responsible for the success of their project and the overall achievement of program objectives. Keys to the success of the program will lie in the implementation of activities, attendance and participation in training and technical assistance, and evaluation of service-learning activities.

Each project has the responsibility of regularly monitoring the progress that is being made toward meeting the performance measures, to request on-site technical assistance, and ensure the project has sound financial procedures for spending and documenting grant and matching funds.

Applicants will be required to attend a three-day orientation and curriculum training, quarterly sub-grantee meetings, other training as appropriate and encouraged to attend the National Service-Learning Conference. Additionally, projects are required to submit quarterly reports to document their progress toward their performance measures.

Learn and Serve School-Based projects will be evaluated on timely reporting to Serve DC, attendance to all required training and meetings and progress toward meeting objectives. Failure to meet the stated requirements may lead to suspension or termination of program funds.

Applicants may consider working with colleges and universities to help design a data collection and evaluation system.

Each grantee must be capable of providing sound fiscal management, adequate staff resources, and have the capacity to manage federal grants. Serve DC expects the program to employ qualified personnel who have experience in managing service-learning or other federal projects, both fiscally and programmatically.

COST EFFECTIVENESS

The detailed budget must provide a full explanation of associated costs including purpose, justification, and the basis of calculations. Where appropriate, calculations should be presented in an equation format, identifying the number of persons involved, the per person or unit cost, and/or itemized line items.

Summary of Statutory Budget Requirements

The source(s) of match may be federal (non Corporation for National and Community Service), state, or local (public or private).

Applicants must allocate at least 10% and not more than 15% of the Serve DC share to planning and capacity building costs.

Consistency of Treatment

To be allowable under this award, costs must be consistent with policies and procedures that apply uniformly to both federally financed and other activities of the applicant. Furthermore, the costs must be accorded consistent treatment in both federally financed and other activities as well as between activities supported by different sources of federal funds.

Match

Describe the major sources of match contribution by clearly indicating the source(s), the type of contribution (cash or in-kind), the approximate amount (or estimate), and the intended purpose of the match. Applicants must match with cash or in-kind contributions at least 10% of the project's total costs for year one of the grant. Upon successful implementation of the first year, there will be an increase in match of 20% for second year continuation, and at least 30% of the total project cost for third year continuation.

Performance Measures

Develop three performance measurement objectives that are clearly connected to the description of the program and cover a one year period. One objective should describe how your program will utilize community volunteers to assist in the implementation of service-learning projects. This objective should include a minimum of a 20% increase in the number of volunteers supporting the organization's youth service activities. The second objective should address the youth development aspect of the program, and the final objective should be related to the community service.

REVIEW AND SELECTION CRITERIA

Serve DC frequently receives far more applications than it can award. Applicants are selected using an extensive, multi-stage process. The process includes reviews by the Serve DC staff, peer review panels, and approval by the Board of Commissioners. Before a program is recommended for approval, it may be necessary to conduct clarifying interviews in person or through conference calls. This process is competitive; therefore, Serve DC is seeking high quality programs that fully address these guidelines.

Serve DC will enter into negotiations with potentially successful applicants in a manner that may require modifications to original proposals. Awards are contingent on successful completion of negotiations. The number of applications approved each year of the three-year funding cycle is subject to the availability of funds.

The bullets under each sub-heading describe what Serve DC considers important and what applicants should include in the application narrative. Program Design includes three sub-categories and represents 60 percent of the basis used to evaluate and select each program. The sub-categories of Needs and Service Activities, Strengthening Communities and Participant Development are related and are therefore grouped in a single Program Design criteria. Serve DC will give equal importance to these subcategories when reviewing applications.

ADDITIONAL CONSIDERATIONS

The following will be considered when making final selections: quality and innovation of programs; potential for replication by programs in other areas; potential for sustainability of the program or the service activities when the grant period ends; and geographic diversity across the District.

In addition, Serve DC is seeking a participant pool that includes young people ages 5-17, approximately equal numbers of boys and girls, individuals with disabilities and individuals of all races, ethnicities, faiths, and economic backgrounds.

GRANT PERIOD

Serve DC generally provides funding for a three-year project period. Applications must include proposed activities and a detailed proposed budget for the first year of operation and program objectives for a one-year period.

Approved programs enter into a multi-year award agreement; however, Serve DC will enter into a grant agreement only for the first year of the program. Serve DC has no obligation to provide additional funding in subsequent years. Funding for the second and third years of an approved program is contingent upon the availability of funds, adequate performance including satisfactory progress in relation to the approved objectives, submission of proposed changes in activities or objectives, a detailed budget and budget narrative for the applicable program year, and any other criteria established in the award agreement.

FEDERAL FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT AND GRANT ADMINISTRATION REQUIREMENTS

As with all federal grant programs, it is the responsibility of all grantees to ensure appropriate stewardship of federal funds entrusted to them. Under Serve DC regulations, each grantee must maintain financial management systems that provide accurate, current, and complete disclosure of the financial results of its program. To meet this requirement, you must have adequate accounting practices and procedures, internal controls, audit trails, and cost allocation procedures. OMB Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Nonprofit Organizations, requires all organizations to have financial audits if they annually expend $500,000 or more under federal awards. This requirement applies to the organization's total expenditures each fiscal year under all of its federal awards.

As with all federal grant programs, applicants must ensure that programs or activities will be conducted, and facilities operated, in compliance with the applicable civil rights statutes and their implementing regulations. For civil rights purposes, all programs and projects funded under the National and Community Service Act, as amended, are programs or activities receiving federal financial assistance. See the Learn and Service General Grant Provisions for specific requirements.

http://www.learnandserve.org/resources/general_prov_lsa01.pdf. The requirements related to program participation, including discrimination requirements, are set forth in applicable grant provisions.

ASSURANCES AND CERTIFICATIONS INSTRUCTIONS

By signing and submitting this application, as the duly authorized representative of the applicant, you certify that the applicant will comply with the Assurances and Certifications described below.

a) Inability to certify

Your inability to provide the assurances and certifications listed below will not necessarily result in denial of a grant. You must submit an explanation of why you cannot do so. We will consider your explanation in determining whether to enter into this transaction. However, your failure to furnish an explanation will disqualify your application.

b) Erroneous certification or assurance

The assurances and certifications are material representations of fact upon which we rely in determining whether to enter into this transaction. If we later determine that you knowingly submitted an erroneous certification or assurance, in addition to other remedies available to the federal government, we may terminate this transaction for cause or default.

c) Notice of error in certification or assurance

You must provide immediate written notice to us if at any time you learn that a certification or assurance was erroneous when submitted or has become erroneous because of changed circumstances.

d) Definitions

The terms “covered transaction”, “debarred”, “suspended”, “ineligible”, “lower tier covered transaction”, “participant”, “person”, “primary covered transaction”, “principal”, “proposal”, and “voluntarily excluded” as used in this clause, have the meanings set out in the Definitions and Coverage sections of the rules implementing Executive Order 12549. An applicant shall be considered a “prospective primary participant in a covered transaction” as defined in the rules implementing Executive Order 12549. You may contact us for assistance in obtaining a copy of those regulations.

e) Certification requirement for subgrant agreements

You agree by submitting this proposal that if we approve your application you shall not knowingly enter into any lower tier covered transaction with a person who is debarred, suspended declared ineligible, or voluntarily excluded from participation in this covered transaction, unless authorized by us.

f) Certification inclusion in subgrant agreements

You agree by submitting this proposal that you will include the clause titled “Certification Regarding Debarment, Suspension, Ineligibility and Voluntary Exclusion-Lower Tier Covered Transactions,” provided by us, without modification, in all lower tier covered transactions and in all solicitations for lower tier covered transactions.

g) Certification of subgrant principals

You may rely upon a certification of a prospective participant in a lower-tier covered transaction that is not debarred, suspended, ineligible, or voluntarily excluded from the covered transaction, unless you know that the certification is erroneous. You may decide the method and frequency by which you determine the eligibility of your principals. You may, but are not required to, check the List of Parties Excluded from Federal Procurement and Nonprocurement Programs.

h) Non-certification in subgrant agreements

If you knowingly enter into a lower tier covered transaction with a person who is suspended, debarred, ineligible, or voluntarily excluded from participation in this transaction, in addition to other remedies available to the federal government, we may terminate this transaction for cause or default.

i) Prudent person standard

Nothing contained in the foregoing may be construed to require establishment of a system of records in order to render in good faith the assurances and certifications required. Your knowledge and information is not required to exceed that which is normally possessed by a prudent person in the ordinary course of business dealings.
